I became more participatory as the semester went on as I became more confident in my understanding. I was attending class regularly and put in a lot of effort into homeworks.

2. I found this course challenging and intellectually stimulating, and I learned a considerable amount.
Strongly agree

Comments:
I found this class to be one of my more engaging classes because I was really trying to understand as it was being taught instead of focusing on getting all the notes down as in some other classes. It was also pretty challenging for me since it was different from most math classes I had taken before.

3. The workload and pace of this course seemed appropriate.
Agree

Comments:
Sometimes the homework for each week seemed like a lot, but with rewrites, as long as you put in enough effort, you could make up for it the next week.

4. Instructor's organizational skills (including planning, preparation, and productive use of class time) were effective.
Agree

Comments:
The class flows really well especially integrating proof presentations into class time.

5. The instructor's communication skills (for example, presentation of material, facilitation of discussion, and clarity of expectations) were effective.
Strongly agree

Comments:
Scott is great at getting students involved in the discussion and making the subject material more interesting.

Journals should (at least) be optional. There may be people who find them useful in completing the graded problems, but there are also students who simply have an extra 3-4 hours of tedious homework a week.

2. I found this course challenging and intellectually stimulating, and I learned a considerable amount.
   Strongly agree

   Comments:
   Extremely (not an exaggeration) useful. I have struggled with proofs since we graduated from the 9th grade level geometric proofs and seemed to be useless with them. This class on proofs was a great help to structure and planning.

3. The workload and pace of this course seemed appropriate.

   Comments:
   Some assignments seemed a little heavy and time-intensive, but then again, I have trouble with proofs and that may have just been me being behind the curve.

Very few teachers at Colby respect every student's time and makes clear from the start all expectations and work. Scott did this very well and I greatly appreciated that. His exams were also very fair. If I were ever interested in the topic, I would surely take another Scott course.

This was a great class. I really enjoyed taking it and I think the teaching model (readings before lectures, incremented problem sets, rewrite option) was incredibly effective for the material.

I worked hard, but I had trouble in class. We moved really fast and I constantly felt like I was behind. I know I could have asked questions, but sometimes I felt like I would have to go too far back to understand. It became a little out of control.

2. I found this course challenging and intellectually stimulating, and I learned a considerable amount.
Agree

Comments:
I was definitely challenged, I think it just became a little too challenging at times and I was unable to learn what I needed to.

3. The workload and pace of this course seemed appropriate.

Comments:
I had trouble keeping up, but I think if I had managed my time better, I would have found the homework assignments useful. The only thing was, the corrections were great because they helped us get points back, but it was some times difficult to get the corrections all done and finish the homework on time.

4. Instructor's organizational skills (including planning, preparation, and productive use of class time) were effective.
Agree

Comments:
Class was used very efficiently, sometimes a bit too much. It would have been good if we could have moved just a little slower.

5. The instructor's communication skills (for example, presentation of material, facilitation of discussion, and clarity of expectations) were effective.
Strongly agree

Comments:
He was always very clear, and his writing style especially was very effective in helping me understand the proofs.

6. The instructor was open to questions and willing to help outside of class time.

He was definitely available, I just wish that I had used the opportunity more. Honestly, I didn't want to go in and show him how behind I was. I realize know that that is the exact reason I should have gone in to talk to him.

7. The instructor's assessment of student work was prompt, consistent, useful, and substantive.

Sometimes we did not get homework back for several weeks, so we had to go back to do the corrections.

Class time does help some basic understanding but sometimes it isn't necessarily helpful for what's required to do. But then again, I can't imagine how this course can be taught in other ways. I guess the point is for us to struggle through the problems and seek help outside of class.

If possible, I would have liked to have the homework assignments made available the week before they were do as we did for some of the weeks. I usually like to take a crack at the sets before the week starts so that it doesn't peak with the work from the rest of my classes. It was just that sometimes the Wednesday assignment would feel a little rushed even while earlier that week I had extra time I could have used to start it.
